

Tenth Anniversary of the Sir James Dunn Animal Welfare Centre

Next week is the celebration of the tenth anniversary of the Sir James Dunn Animal Welfare Centre. Here's what you need to know to take in the festivities!

Saturday morning...Is Your Horse Happy? Are you sure? Well, Dr. Katherine Houpt will be giving a lecture on this very topic on October 30, at 9 a.m. in Lecture Theatre "A". Dr. Houpt is from Cornell University and is one of the leading figures in horse behaviour and welfare in North America. She has studied how a horse's environment affects its behaviour, and welfare, encompassing factors such as heat, light, bedding and stall size.

Monday afternoon...Join the celebration! The SJDAWC Open House, November 1, 1:15 p.m. in the main lobby of AVC. The Open House will include a major funding announcement for the centre, guest speakers and refreshments. Don't be the last one to find out why this is such an exciting week!

For the rest of the week there will be an engaging display set-up in the lobby of AVC and also a display of books in the library, which the Centre has purchased over the past years. Make sure you drop by to see each of them before they're gone!
